

MARTIN LEARNS RESPECT WITH RED LION

A Character Champions Story - Red Mindset in Action

Dr Diana Chavez Ketterman

Martin grabbed the toy car quickly, wanting to play first. Red Lion gently reminded him, "Respect means letting others go first sometimes!"

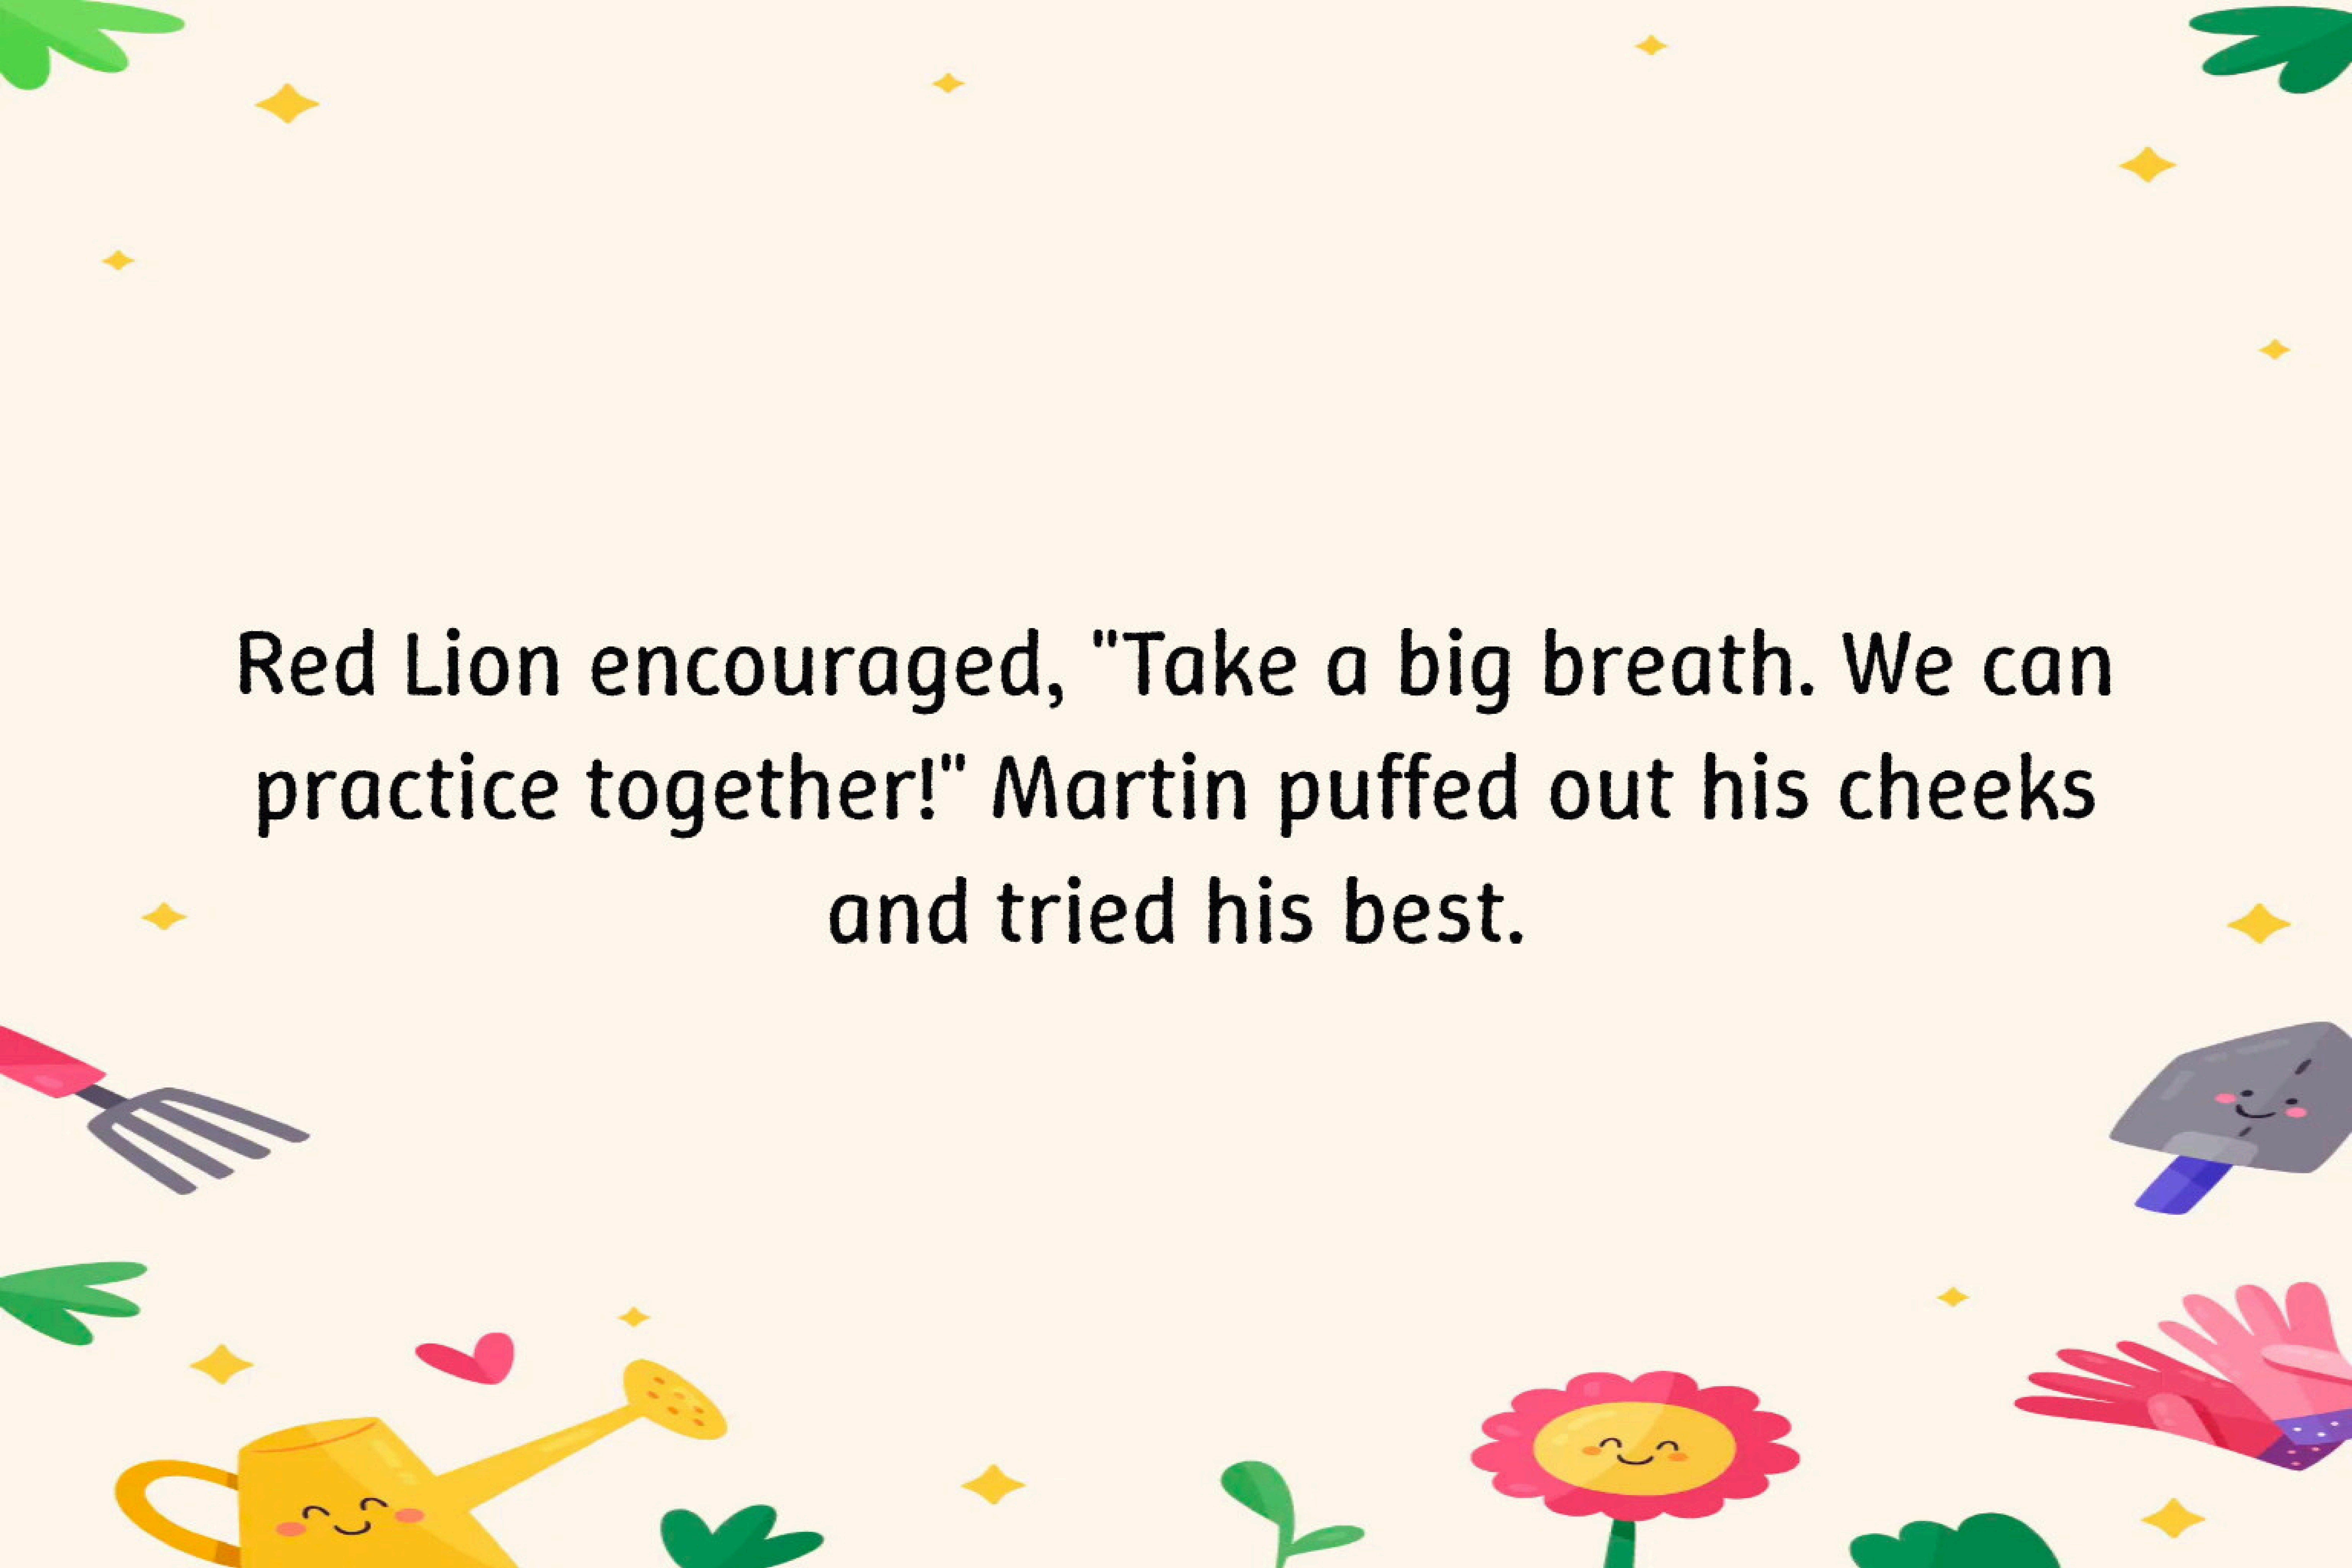

Martin frowned, exclaiming, "But I want to play NOW!" Red Lion kindly whispered, "Respect means sharing and waiting."

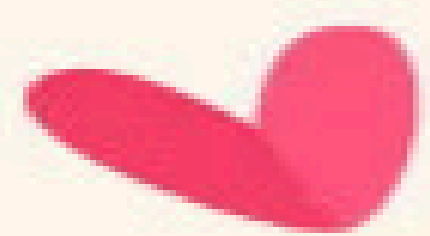

Red Lion encouraged, "Take a big breath. We can practice together!" Martin puffed out his cheeks and tried his best.

When Martin waited his turn, the other kids smiled. Martin proudly said, "Thank you!"

Red Lion explained, "Respect is also listening when people talk." Martin sat still and listened carefully.

Martin looked at his teacher, with his hands calmly in his lap. Red Lion whispered, "That's showing respect!"

At snack time, Martin waited patiently in line. Red Lion praised him, "Great job waiting your turn!"

Martin generously shared his crackers with a friend. "Sharing is respect, too!" Red Lion cheered.

Martin said, "Please" when asking for more juice.
The teacher smiled, "That's very polite!"

A toy broke, and Martin said, "I'm sorry. It was an accident." Red Lion said, "Saying sorry shows respect."

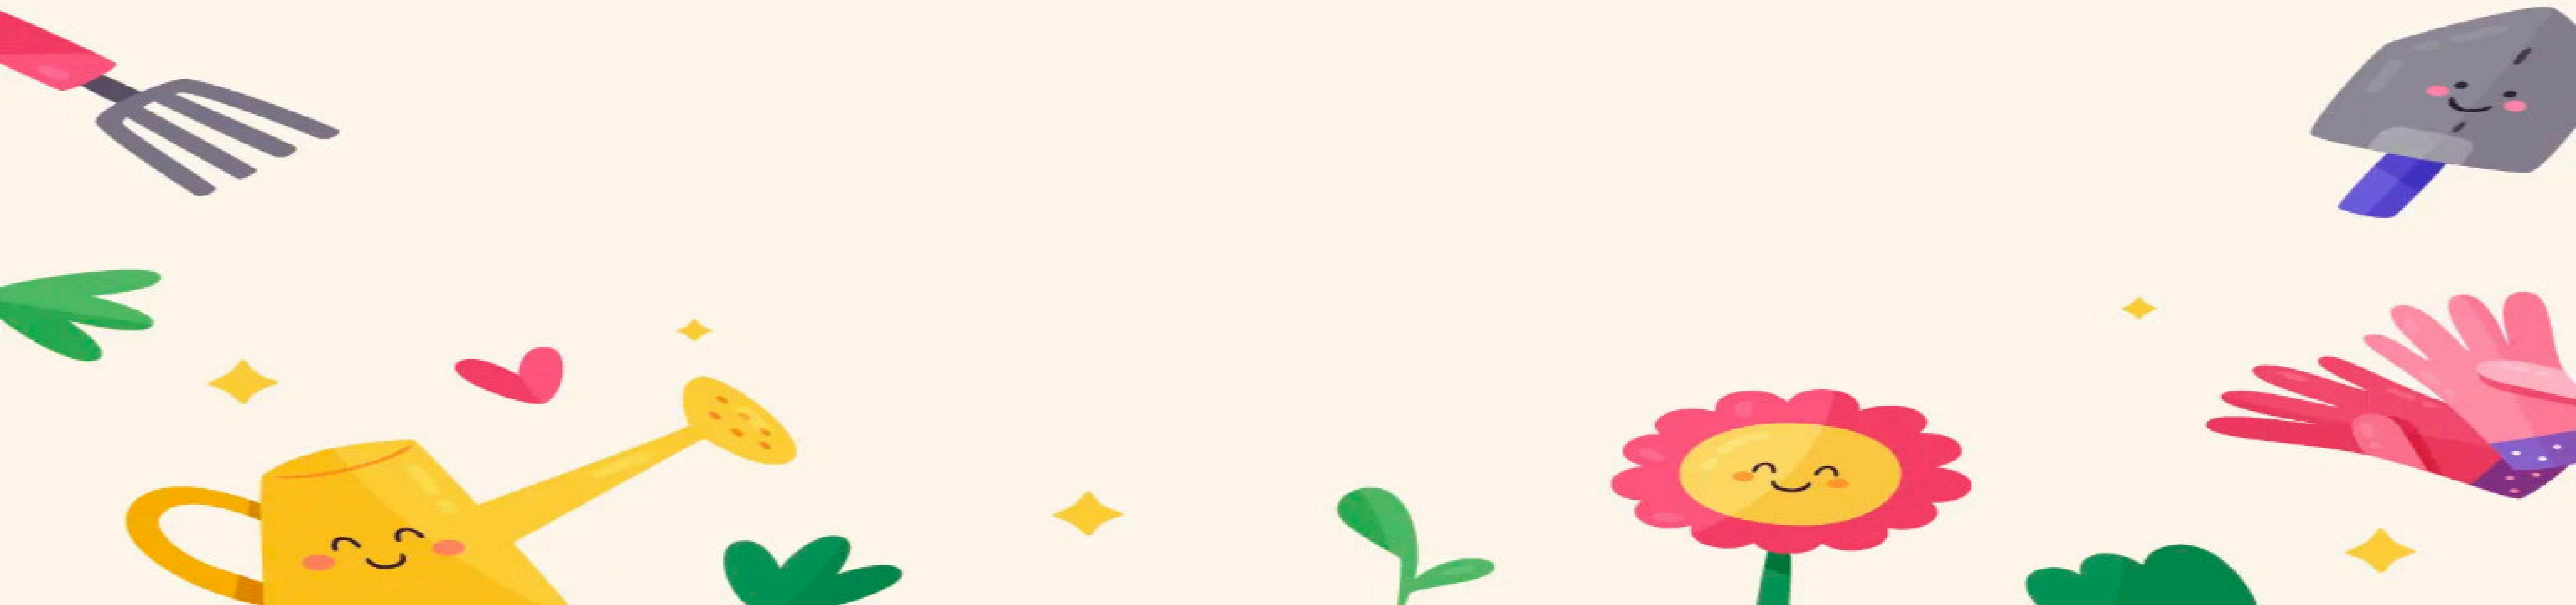

Martin's friend said, "Thank you for saying sorry."
Martin grinned, "You're welcome!"

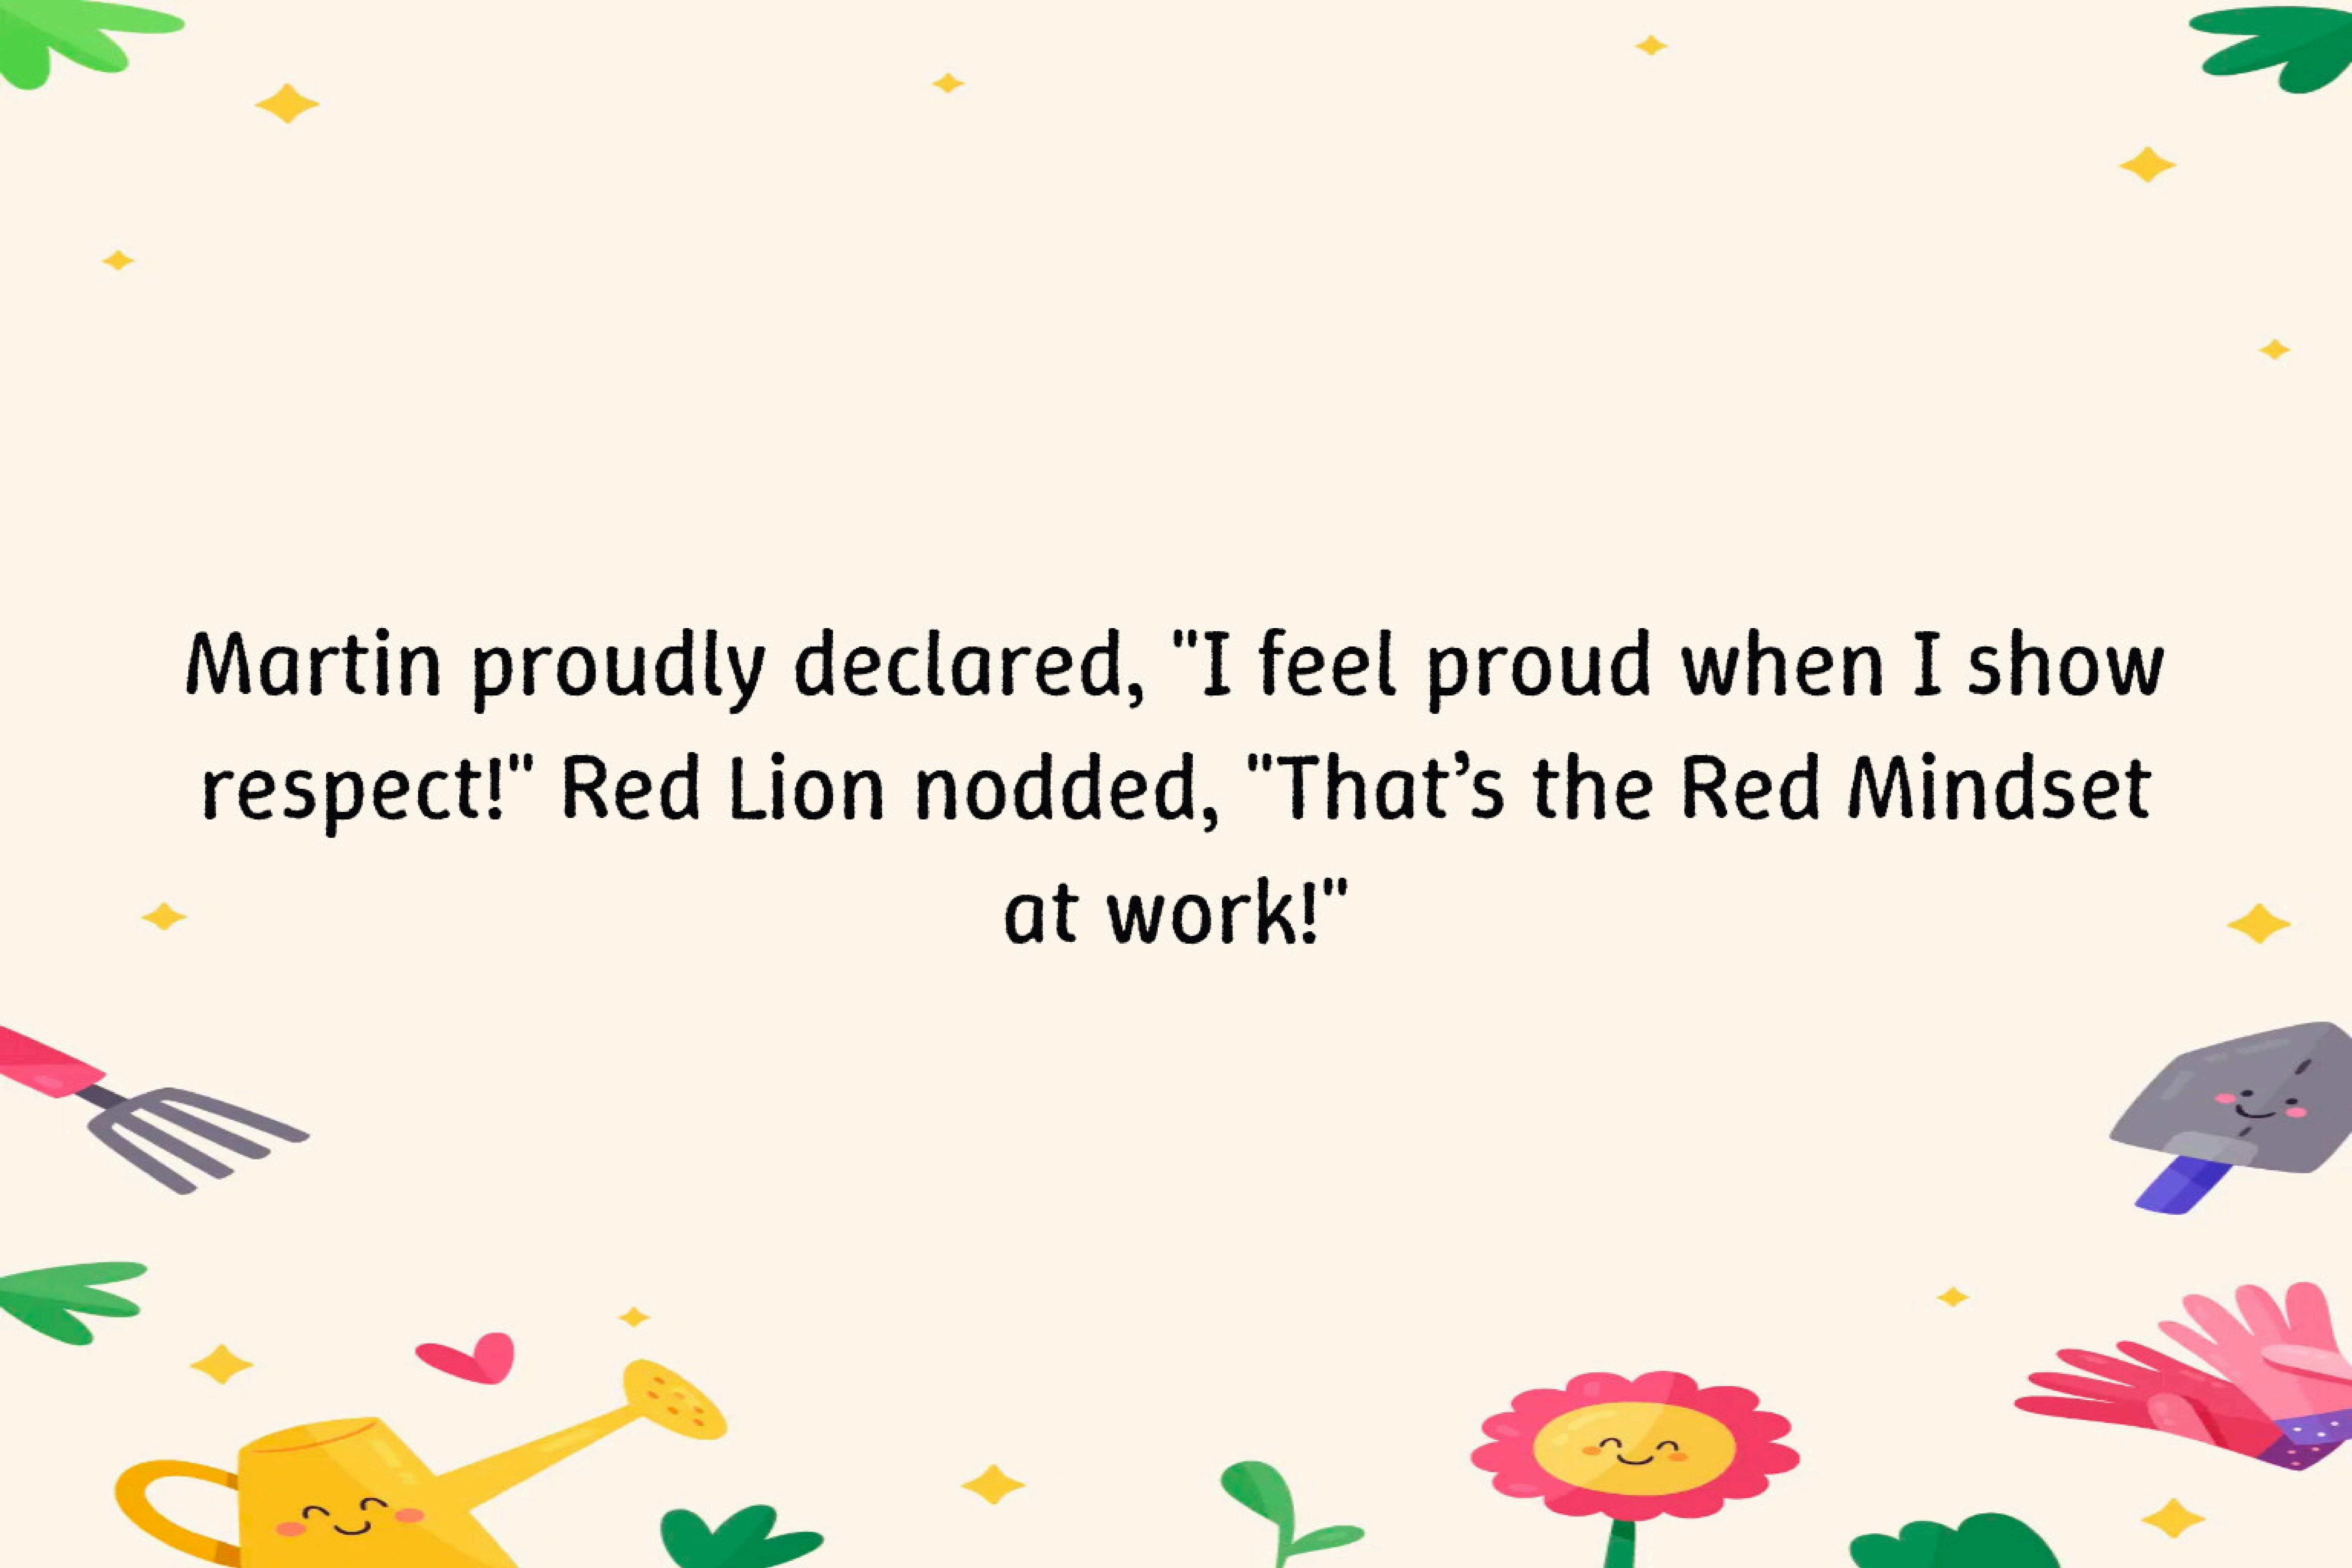

Red Lion exclaimed, "See? Respect makes everyone feel good inside!" Martin smiled a big, happy smile.

Martin proudly declared, "I feel proud when I show respect!" Red Lion nodded, "That's the Red Mindset at work!"

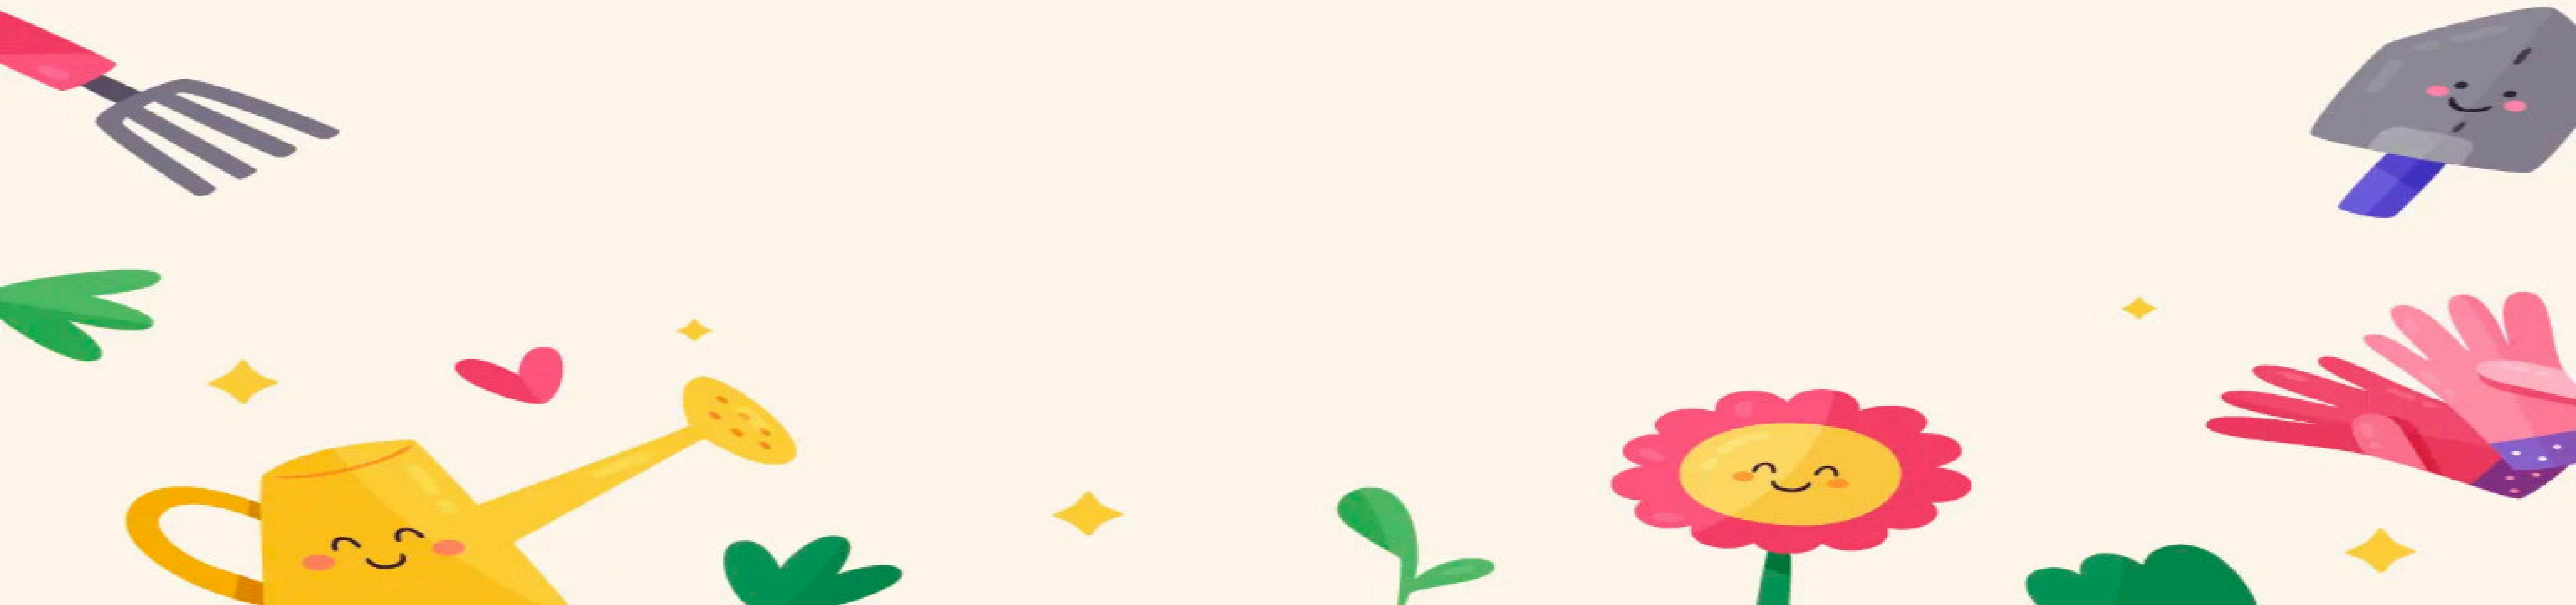

Martin excitedly shouted, "Respect is awesome!"
The other kids clapped their hands.

Red Lion said, "Every time you show respect, you grow stronger inside!" Martin cheered, "Hooray for respect!"
